

Coating Machine

We offer an advanced range of coating machines that are used for the rapid and uniform coating to sheet material. Available in various models and specifications, the range of coating machines are widely used in railways, ordinance factories, automobile industry and many other industries. We fabricate these machines as per the clients specifications.

The range of coating machine available with us is designed for the best performance. These are used for the application of adhesive or coating to sheet material, as well as for the application of a wide variety of coating and glue including latex cement, water base adhesives, hot animal glue, solvent base glue, hot melt adhesive, and ultraviolet cured coating. The models available are such as pan is available with buffels or without buffels. The polishing pan can be fitted on the same structure frame as the coating pan. We fabricate as per the clients specifications and are offered at highly competitive prices to all our clients.