

A collection of various metal castings, including brackets, levers, and structural components, arranged on a white background. The parts exhibit different shapes and sizes, some with multiple holes and complex internal structures, demonstrating the versatility of casting in manufacturing.