

Spur Gears

These gears are made by using fine raw material and are available in various customized sizes as per clients requirement.

Spur gears manufactured by the company are the most simplest and most common type of gears which are generally used for transmission of rotary motion between parallel shafts. These have got an operating efficiency of 98-99%. The teeth in these gears project radially and are aligned parallel to the axis rotation giving an efficient end result.

