

Elbow Fittings

Elbow fittings offered comprise butt welding seamless/welded steel elbow fittings that are made available in different size choices of 1/2" to 24" for seamless as well as in larger capacities of 24" to 72" for welded fittings. Coming with capability to handle high temperature and corrosion resistance, these fittings can be made available in wall thickness options of sch5s to sch160, xs, xxs and others as well as in industry standards like asme; asme; jis; din and others. Here, our expertise also lies in manufacturing these according to customers' drawings.

“ all the rates of the products mentioned on the website and may vary depending on availability and market scenario”

Metal fitting offered feature superior construction finish and can be made available using sheets involving cold roll steel process. Further, the involved processes like cutting, stamping, polishing and plating are all performed using latest process support equipment so as to assure of flawless finish standards. Some of its features include choice of different thicknesses; surface treatment options of zinc, nickel, chrome plated finish; allows for easy assembling and disassembling and others.

“ all the rates of the products mentioned on the website and may vary depending on availability and market scenario”

Monel fittings offered can be made available by us in different configuration choices in sized up to 72” or as specified by the customers. Some of the industry standards these are offered in include astm a105, astm a105n, astm a694-f60, astm a694-f65 and others. Further, the fittings can be provided in pressure grades of pn2.5 to pn40 in different metal grades. Our expertise also lies in meeting the demands of other non-standard sizes including oem specifications as demanded by the customers.

“ all the rates of the products mentioned on the website and may vary depending on availability and market scenario”

We provide a wide range of pipe fittings to the clients that are made available at competitive market prices. While manufacturing, our professionals make use of high-grade raw material and advanced technology. Furthermore, it is the duty of our professionals to fabricate the products precisely at par with the international industry standards.

Clients acclaim our offered fittings for their following features:

- Dimensional accuracy
- Durability
- Seamless finishing
- Rugged construction

“ all the rates of the products mentioned on the website and may vary depending on availability and market scenario”

