

Aspiration Channel

Incorporating knowledge with effective machinery, we are able to manufacture, supply and export Aspiration Channel. These products are used in different flour mills for cleaning food grains. Owing to their light impurity material separation capacity, these products provide high performance without any errors. These products can be operated without electrical power or motor without any hassle. Aspiration Channels are packed in special packaging material in order to determine its secure transit.

