

Bifurcated Fans

Bifurcated axial flow fans where the motor has been taken out of the airstream which allows the fan to operate at higher temperatures. They are suitable for medium to high volume applications with low pressure development. These fans are aimed at building services and general extract applications.

