

Lifting Magnets

Lifting magnets, also known as magnetic lifters or magnetic lifting devices, are specialized tools used to lift and transport ferromagnetic materials in a safe and efficient manner. These magnets use strong magnetic fields to hold and secure objects with ferromagnetic properties, such as iron and steel, during lifting and handling operations.

