

Tray Dryer

Tray dryer are used mainly for drying wet products like granules, crude drugs, quality chemicals and powders. Heated air produced inside the chamber drives away moisture and instantly dries the items kept inside it. Trays containing wet products are stored inside the chamber compartments and hot air is introduced through small pores which ultimately dries the wet products within no time.

Customers can adjust the temperature according to their needs and dry all the wet items quickly. You can store dyes, chemicals and pharmaceutical products inside the chamber and heat them instantly. The desired feed materials dries within few minutes when the temperature inside the chamber increases.

We offer free installation for all of our customers. We supply varieties of compactly designed tray dryers that come with aesthetic features, advanced father touch operations, and automatic functionalities.
